

BOOK REVIEW

Dick Johnson's autobiography Don't Tell Me I Can't Do That was a long time coming but worth the wait as he tells the story of his life and career in his own unique and forthright style.

Dick is both a proud Australian and family man, also recognised for his a great sense of humour.

Although motor racing started out as a part-time pursuit, by 1980 it had come a full-time commitment as he endeavoured to emulate his personal heroes.

This is a fascinating publication with a great selection of photographs spanning a thirty year career of skill and determination to succeed in his chosen profession.

Dick Johnson is one of the all time greats of Australian motor sport with his record-equalling five Australian Touring Car titles making him unique in the Championship. He remained fast and competitive throughout twenty-eight seasons.
