A Golden Decade

From Nino Farina to Stirling Moss.....The 1950's was a wonderful era in which motor racing truly "came of age". Some of the world's most influential manufacturers and drivers made their mark during this decade, providing an extensive archive of technical innovation and fascinating characters.

With a wealth of facts, interviews, anecdotes and terrific racing film footage, motoring historian Neville Hay recalls the major stepping stones of this memorable period.

Juan Manuel Fangio, Alberto Ascari, Peter Collins, Stirling Moss, Tony Brooks, Mike Hawthorn and Australia's own Jack Brabham are all featured in this excellent production which runs for 132 minutes.

This is the autobiography of Stuart Turner, onetime leading figure of motor rallying who worked with many top drivers and designers, from Paddy Hopkirk to Carlos Sainz, Alec Issigonis to Keith Duckworth.

Turner writes frankly and modestly about guiding BMC and Ford to rally glory.

Feted by Stirling Moss as the "best after-dinner speaker I know" this autobiography is certainly entertaining. At times, it may be considered controversial, but it is also funny, very informative and easy to read.

Anticipating the next clever quip from the author, it is difficult to put this book down.

There are several pages of interesting photos showing motor sport characters and cars from the past including Eric Carlson, Pat Moss, Anita Taylor, Roger Clark, Cristobel Carlisle, Don and Earl Morley, John Sprinzel and Hannu Mikkola.
